ASSESSORS TO START MONDAY

Receive Final Instructions From County Auditor.

LAST MEETING HELD TODAY

Must be Careful to Enumerate all Dogs.

Auditor Allen Makes it Plain to the Men That he Will Tolerate no Loose Methods and They Are Not to be Blind to Palpable Attempts at Evasion—Names of Assessors.

County Auditor Allen held a final meeting with the township assessors this afternoon previous to the beginning of their work Monday. They were given final instructions and were urged to be particularly careful about the returns on personal property. The county auditor made it plain that he would not tolerate any under-valuation, nor are assessors to wink at any attempted evasions.

It was especially urged that all dogs be enumerated and in cases where assessors know the owners of canines have not returned them for taxation, they are to be enumerated by the assessor. It was also urged that the assessors be particularly careful about getting sworn statements, being sure to administer the oath, and where this is not done, it is to be noted on the returns.

The township assessors are William Johnson, Big Island; J. H. Melvin, Bowling Green; W. B. Kellogg, Claridon, north; Charles Haruff, Claridon south; George C. Bushon, Grand; J. B. Campbell, Grand Prairie; F. D. Morris, Green Camp; Nicholas Everly, Marion, north; W. D. Street, Marion south; J. L. Hatfield, Montgomery, east; Frank Burbaugh, Montgomery, west; H. W. Niggles, Pleasant; A. H. Dunbar, Prospect; E. D. Haruff, Richmond; W. C. Hawley, Salt Rock; William Hill, Scott; Lewis Hummer, Tully; and O. S. Anthony, Waldo.

CLOTHING STORE HAS OPENING

Marx Brothers and Hess Throw Open Their Doors.

HAVE CHANGED LOCATION

Are Now Occupying Former Haberman Room.

A Large Crowd of People Visit The Firm of These Popular Clothiers Yesterday—Each Received a Souvenir of the Occasion.

Twelve years ago the firm of I. Marx and Sons came into existence in Marion when they put in a complete stock of clothing and gentlemen's furnishings in their room about five doors from the present site of the Marion County Bank. Due to their excellent stock and ability to make and hold friends the business and popularity of these clothiers rapidly increased with Marion people. In 1900 the firm of the Golden Eagle Clothing store and that of I. Marx and Sons united their stock and firms changing the name of their firm to that of Marx Brothers and Hess, Benjamin and Jacob Marx and Myer Hess becoming the proprietors. A few weeks ago, in order to better their location and condition, the firm decided to rent and remodel the room formerly used by the Haberman Hardware store.

Yesterday afternoon and evening Marx Brothers and Hess threw open their doors to the public displaying one of the most up-to-date and finely equipped clothing stores of the city. The handsome new room was beautifully decorated with masses of pink wild roses and great blooming potted roses placed artistically. Along one side of the room pennants, representing Marion's various schools and social organizations were suspended. To each lady caller was presented a pink carnation while the gentlemen were also remembered with a souvenir. Devoted orchestra screened behind a bank of roses and amusements played through out the evening.

Marx Brothers and Hess are to be congratulated upon their new location, their business and store.

Now is the time, and Henney and Cooper's the place for Lime and Sulphur solution, Arsenate of Lead, Bordeaux Mixture, Paris Green. Everything for spraying. 3-22-61

THOUGHT TO BE APRIL FOOL JOKE

A Sad Feature of Clifford Leffler's Death.

REMAINS LAID AT REST

No Cause Known For Taking His Life.

Body is Accompanied to Prospect by Martin Idleman, His Room Mate. He Seemed Dejected Because of His Friends Leaving Him—"My God, Mart! You're the Best Friend I Ever Had," Were His Last Words.

As yet no cause has been found that prompted young Clifford Leffler, of Prospect to take his own life last Saturday at New Castle, Indiana. Funeral services were held in Prospect last Thursday. The following is what the New Castle Times has to say: "What was at first believed to be an April fool joke proved to be a grim tragedy the scene being laid at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Williams at 1203 South 18th street, at 12:30 o'clock today. The call came to both the Times office and police headquarters and each thought there was some hoax, but investigation despite this and found the story only too true.

A call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who keep roomers, revealed the body of Clifford Leffler, of Prospect, lying stiff in death, a bullet wound in the center of the forehead just above the hairline, from which the brains were oozing, and a pool of blood nearby gave the finishing touches to the death scene.

Acting Coroner Westhafer was notified and the Stanley ambulance was called and removed the body to the undertaking rooms to prepare it for burial. It will be held pending word from the father, John Leffler, at Prospect, Ohio. Martin Idleman, also of Prospect, a roommate and chum of Leffler, is almost overcome by the shock of the tragedy and could hardly give a coherent account of the suicide.

Young Leffler is an orphan, his father only living, and his mother and brothers and sisters having died of consumption. He came here three weeks ago at the solicitation of his chum, Martin Idleman, also a young man who had been working here for several months at the automobile factory. Leffler secured a job as trimmer, and worked up to noon today. He came to the Williams home where Idleman, having received word from his father to come to Minnesota, where he had purchased a large farm, was packing his suit case preparatory to leaving this afternoon for Minnesota.

Fatal Shot Fired. Leffler seemed dejected over the leaving of his chum and was sitting on a chair while Idleman was busily engaged, his back turned, packing his suit-case which lay on the bed. On the stand nearby lay a 32-caliber revolver which contained three loaded shells until after the tragedy, when one was empty. "My God, Mart, you're the best friend I ever had," Leffler said, and just then a shot was heard and Idleman turned to see his friend lunge forward from the chair and fall under the bed, the revolver going some distance in advance. Idleman was horror-stricken and stunned for a moment, recovered himself and, hurrying down stairs, informed Mr. and Mrs. Williams of what had happened, and then collapsed. He was given attention while Mr. Williams called Dr. W. I. Fugate. Dr. Fugate responded, but the breath of life had fled before he arrived. The body was straightened out and the fast chilling hands placed on the breast to await the coming of the last actors in the drama, the coroner and undertaker.

Relatives at Prospect, Ohio, have been notified and it is expected that word from them will be received as to the disposition of the body.—New Castle (Ind.) Times.
